Members, Board of Trustees:

RENAMING OF UNIVERSITY BUILDING (BUILDING 400)

Recommendation: that the Board of Trustees approve the renaming of the Building 400 at the former Lexington Theological Seminary as the Early Childhood Laboratory.

Background: The Early Childhood Laboratory (ECL), established in 1928, is a university-based center operated by the Department of Special Education and Rehabilitation Counseling in the College of Education. The Early Childhood Laboratory has a three-part mission to serve as a model early childhood program in the community; to serve as a teacher training site for future early childhood teachers; and, to serve as a site for research in child development and early childhood education.

Building 400, as it is currently named, was part of what was the Lexington Theological Seminary. The building was renovated for the ECL and they moved into the building in 2015. The building is in need of appropriate signage and UK Facilities is supportive of this request as it will correct some conflicting building identification.

The Advisory Committee on Naming University Property has reviewed this request and found it to be in compliance with Administrative Regulation 9:5 and recommends approval of this name designation.
